Train wreck empties West Paris village Fears of propane leak lead to five-hour evacuation

By ALISON ALOISIO and JUDITH MEYER

Most of the 300 to 400 West Paris residents evacuated Monday night returned to their homes a few hours after they left, following the derailment of a propane-filled freight car just north of the village.

A broken wheel on a freight car caused Monday's derailment of several cars from a southbound St. Lawrence & Atlantic freight train, according to a company spokesman.

Fears of a propane leak from the tanker car prompted the evacuation of several hundred residents within a mile of the site, about a half mile north of the Penley Mill in West

Two box cars came to rest at water's edge of the Little Androscoggin River. The tanker car, which did not reach the river, was believed to be carrying up to 33,000 gallons of liquid propane.

At about 7:30 p.m., the decision was made to go ahead with a precautionary evacuation of much of West Paris village. Reports had been received that there was a hole in the tanker -- which could create the danger of an explosion from gaseous propane.

County restructuring plan gets mixed reviews locally.

By ALISON ALOISIO

Newry selectman Wendy Hanscom thinks county government reform is a good idea -- but, she says, parts of a proposed plan to do it may be hard to sell to some people, Vern Maxfield, Woodstock's town manager, is one of those people.

Hanscom and Maxfield were among three dozen Oxford County officials and citizens who attended a meeting last Friday in South Paris, to discuss a proposal to restructure county government and financing.

Hanscom is a member of the Task Force on Intergovernmental Structure, created last year by Gov.

Angus King.
King established the 21-member committee to find ways to deal with three problems: high property taxes; duplication and fragmentation of services at the state, regional and local levels; and mismatches between authority and funding decisions -- that is, the state mandating services, and the county having to pay for them.

Five steps to better government . The committee has put together a plan to address those problems, and

1) Have state government pay for the mandates it requires of county government, such as jails, courts and registries of deeds and probate. The services account for about 62 percent of all county costs now paid by the property tax (about $38 million). The payment would be made to counties through an 2.5 percent expansion of the community revenue sharing program. 2) Cap, by law, the property tax rate that would then be charged to municipalities for the remaining 38 percent of costs (services such as road and bridge maintenance, com-

Liz Lavalette draws 3-5 years on charges in Massachusetts

By MICHAEL DANIELS

A Massachusetts' judge last week sentenced former Greenwood's town manager Liz Lavalette to three to five years in prison for stealing $59,100 from the from a Massachusetts town where she worked before coming to Maine, and for stealing $1,100 from a Boy Scout troop

She will not be eligible for parole until the first three years are served. "I don't know why I took the money. I didn't need it," Lavalette, 57, of Pittsfield. She wept in Berkshire Superior Court as she begged Judge Daniel other volunteers went door-to-door, Ford for probation instead of jail town manager in Greenwood. She resigned after nine months and now faces embezzlement charges for allegedly stealing another $20,000 here.

Berkshire County prosecutors had asked for a five to seven year prison

They said she stole $58,000 from West Stockbridge, the little mountain town where she worked for 18 years, and $1,100 from the Boy Scout troop while managing its

During her appeal to the judge, the former clerk said she discovered last year that she was suffering from clinical depression. She said she has been receiving treatment.

She also said she would pay restitution. Her lawyer, Robert Carnes, offered her bank savings passbook with more that $40,000. He said his client had tried to commit suicide in December.

However, David Capeless, the assistant district attorney, said, "The crimes were calculated behaviors to achieve her schemes."

Alan Seames, Greenwood's road foreman, has the names of people who have apparently been using lower Greenwood as their personal trash disposal site.

But it appears he can't do a thing about it.

"The lower end of Greenwood's being trashed," Seames told the town's selectmen last week.

Particular problem areas are the Alcohol Mary Road, the Greenwood Road near Mud Pond, and property by the roadside spring on the Greenwood Road near the intersection of the Hayes Road.

Leland Kangas, a member of the road crew, has picked up bagged trash that contained mail with names on it.

Kangas thinks that makes those people responsible for the mess. Nobody else gets your mail," he He recognized some of the names, he said, as people he knows from Norway and South Paris. But when Seames contacted the Sheriff's Office about the problem, he was told the people would have to be caught in the act of dumping the trash for the SO to take action. Besides household trash, the crew has also been finding a lot of tires dumped down over roadside bank-

CHAMBER NOT AGAINST HUNTING

I am writing to clarify the quotations in both the Sun-Journal/Sunday paper and the Maine Sunday Telegram regarding the Bethel Area Chamber's "position" on the moose hunt.

George Driscoll, current president of the chamber's board of directors, and I were interviewed by both papers regarding this issue. The chamber board has had ongoing discussion on the moose hunt since the early summer when it was announced that the Inland Fisheries and Wildlife Dept, was considering extending the moose hunt zone to include the Bethel area. As a board, we decided not to take a stand but rather be a catalyst to an educational forum on the issue which was held this summer at Telstar High School.

The chamber board and staff is in no way against hunting of any sort. Our basic concern was the timing of the moose hunt falling on one of the peak fall tourism weeks in our region and for the safety of our visitors who are recreating in the woods. Our suggestion was to move the moose hunt back at least one week as the majority of our fall recreational visitors leave this area after Columbus Day Weekend.

The chamber was portrayed in the Lewiston Sun article as being against moose hunting. Both George Driscoll and I were emphatic in our interviews that the chamber board recognizes the value of hunting to our economy and also to the lifestyle of many of our residents. The reporter, Bonnie Washuk, failed to mention that in her article.

When our governor was elected, he put a team of people together to help run the departments of state government. It is our contention that the commissioners of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife and the Department of Economic and Community Development (which oversees the Maine Office of Tourism) should be working together to maximize the economic return to the State of Maine. If they were doing this, they would have deferred the moose hunt until after the fall foliage season. Safety and economics--it makes good sense for all sides."

A PARKWAY MYSTERY

To the Editor:

Please help solve a mystery regarding highway markings in and around the Bethel Parkway area. I may be, as Winnie-the-Pooh says, a Bear of Very Small Brain, but I can't for the life of me figure out why Maine DOT marked the left turn points on Route 26, Route 2, and the Parkway with those yellow "bulbs." Do they want us to pull right to turn left? If so (and I think that would not be a bright idea) then why is there a solid line (do not cross) just beyond the yellow cross hatched

It seems to me that the standard "turn left lane" and "go straight lane" arrows would be much more effective and much less confusing. I thought perhaps one winter of plowing and folks driving over the yellow and wearing it away would solve the problem. However, this spring the diligent DOT troops repainted the bulbs even brighter yellow. Someone must see logic in the design. Can you explain it?

WHY THE WMNF BINGO DELAY?

To the Editor:

Harry Preble's Letter to the Editor of Aug. 28 focused on the apparent lack of concern on the part of the White Mountain National Forest over the Passamaquoddys' rezoning petition to put 2,000 seat high stakes bingo in its "front yard" on the Old West Bethel Road in Albany. At the end of August, LURC finally received comments from the WMNF. Considering the impact on the WMNF's Crocker Pond, Patte Brook recreation area, an explanation for the Forest Service, delayed response seems appropriate.

Under LURC's rezoning process, it is the responsibility of the applicant to address to potential adverse impact of the proposed development on existing uses and area. The Passamaquoddy Tribe and its partner Snake River Financing LTD. choose to ignore the proximity of the National Forest recreation area. Nothing in their rezoning petition re-'lated to the impact on the Crocker Pond-Patte Brook camping, fishing, hiking or scenic area, or in fact, on existing recreational traffic.

The National Forest rangers explained that they would have expected a full impact study by the applicant of both primary and secondary affects of the proposed development on this area. Essentially it seems the Forest Service did not consider it their responsibility to the study for the applicant. Instead, a forest ranger attended the August public hear-'ing and after listening to the applicant's presentation, intended to speak at the hearing.

So, good question Harry Preble: Why didn't we hear from the National Forest Service at the public hearing? It seems that during the hearing, the ranger advised the commission staff of his intention to speak and the commission staff discouraged him from doing so --stating other agencies had put their responses in writing and noting that if he spoke he would be the only agency to do so. As a result the ranger concluded the Forest Service should likewise put its comments in writing. In early September, the rezoning applicant's engineer submitted a brief response to the Forest Service concerns. They argued that the bingo parlor traffic would not use the Crocker Pond Road, that use of the area by bingo players would be minimal, and that the facility would be designed in a manner to buffer its impact on the area.

Hopefully neither the commission nor the Forest Service will considered this unsubstantiated response to be sufficient.

HIT US WITH YOUR BEST COMMUNITY SHOTS

To the Editor:

The Community Conference '97 is fast approaching. The kickoff event is to create a college of all of us who are our community (all the towns of SAD44) and we'll make it easy. Starting Saturday, Oct. 11, cameras and film will be available--at no cost--at the Good Food Store and Books 'n things. These are for everyone to use to capture images of their neighbors in action-at school, at work, outside, with friends and familyduring this week, Oct. 11-18. Rolls of film and cameras need to be returned by 5 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 18, to one of the two stores. We'll handle the development of the film. (Limit: one roll film/camera per family, business, or organization).

· Additionally, we are looking for photos that people already have which they would like to see in the collage. They can be dropped off at the Good Food Store or Books 'n Things in boxes located there or call me at

The collage will go on display in the storefront windows of the Bethel Foodliner on Oct. 29.

SUPPORT THE GREAT PONDS RECOMMENDATIONS

To the Editor:

The following letter was sent to the 27 members of the Inland Fish and Wildlife and Natural Resources Committees of the State Legislature on Sept. 30. These committees will be reviewing LD 1730 this fall: Dear Representative:

"On Aug. 2 the Community Lakes Association held its annual meeting. Our Association promotes awareness of the lakes in our area (Greenwood and Woodstock), and what needs to be done to maintain water quality, safety and understanding of the environment around our lakes and ponds. A major concern of our 80 plus members is the passage of LD 1730. As president of the association, I was designated to write those legislatures responsible for reviewing this bill.

Our members are very much in favor of the recommendations in the Great Ponds Task Force Report and want to see LD 1730 passed into law,

"I will not take up your time reiterating the horrible experiences of our members due to the irresponsible behavior of some jet skiers. There are many angry citizens hoping and praying that something will be done to control this noisy nuisance.

"The recommendations of the bill appear to be well thought out. It would provide a solution to many of our problems and help us in our endeavors to maintain a clean and safe environment,"

On behalf of the Lakes Association I urge all Citizen readers to watch for this bill to be considered by the House and Senate in January, and to contact your legislators to express your support for it.

WON'T BE PART OF THE RAPING OF MAINE

To the Editor:

The other day I was told to take a look at where I live. Driving home that is exactly what I did. What I saw was East Bethel dressed in its fall colors. I am proud to live in East Bethel and my humble home. No highincome, condo-cluttered neighborhood could ever guaranty to find the kind of friends and neighbors we found in East Bethel. For two years I was lucky enough for my dad to call it his home, too, after so called progress destroyed his neighborhood.

I do not see how informing myself and doing research equates to having the wrong approach with the representatives of the pipeline. If they are so self assured then why is it that they are not willing to talk to those of us with opposing views? It couldn't be that maybe they cannot disprove our points of argument?

For example now the state planning office issued a report saying that at most a mere 11 communities may have the population density to make hooking up the pipeline system feasible, now the president of C.N. Brown wrote a letter stating the actual high cost of natural gas for home-heating. These are points we made

The US-EPA has strong objections concerning this project and FERC did not adequately address regulations under the National Environmental Policy Act--40CFR parts 1508.7 and 1508.8--which address indirect, secondary and cumulative impacts. Few people know that there is quite the list of conditions still attached to the permit FERC issued recently, but I am sure the representatives from PNGTS have made that clear to all the residents and informed them of all their rights.

So, excuse me if I have not rolled out the red carpet for the pipeline construction. I much rather prefer things the way they are right now--a rural, scenic neighborhood for its residents and wildlife. This year my yard suffered some neglect due to me being preoccupied with the pipeline issue. Yet seeing those pesty healthy weeds is still better than dead brown vegetation due to gas leaks. Enjoying the fall foliage is something I much rather prefer to the possibility of seeing acres and acres of burned woods and homes -- do I dare even think of the lives lost? Then again those things don't happen other than in Washington state; Edison, N.J.; Texas State Prison; Vancouver, Canada; Ontario, Canada; Phoenix, Arizona; Louisiana; Indiana; Brockton, Mass.; Milwaukee...

In the end the least I can say is that I tried and refused to be part of raping Maine and the environment.

COMPACT IS A WIN-WIN

To the Editor:

November is an opportunity for a win win situation in Maine for the environment, industry, economy and jobs. Question 1 on the ballot reads: "Do you want the Compact for Mains forests to become law to promote sustainable forest management practices throughout the state?" The obvious answer: "YES."

"Sustainable" is the key word here. Workers throughout the state who make their living from jobs related to tree harvesting need quality trees available 10, 25, 50 years from now. The industry demands a steady supply now and beyond the next couple of decades. Sportsmen and wildlife require a variety of tree growth ages in which to live. The Compact addresses all these concerns.

Strict limits on the sizes and definitions of clearcuts and the buffers around them, encouraging large landowners to thin and replant, plus educating the public, land owners, and school children, are all part of the compact. Land owners will be able to realize and investment by harvesting their acreage in a responsible manner. There will not be job losses because of this legislation. The Main Forest Service expects clearcutting to be reduced by this referendum, but it can still be used as a forestry tool when necessary. Water quality will improve with changes included in the compact.

Vote for something better than we have now. Vote yes on question 1.

THANKS FOR THE CEMETERY HELP

To the Editor:

Just a quick note to publicly thank all the Key bank employees who used their community service time to come to Woodland Cemetery and clean gravestones for the afternoon. A number of stones look much better and the inscriptions can be read much more easily now. On behalf of the Woodland Cemetery, thanks so

If there are other groups or individuals in the community who want to help restore this cemetery to its former grandeur, we would interested in having volunteers work on raking up lots, collecting brush, filling in gravesites and cleaning gravestones. Next year we expect to begin our shrub planting program, so there will be other opportunities for service. Anyone wishing to volunteer, please call me at 824-2291 or sexton Emerson Clough at 836-2575.

MDOT-sign moratorium, meeting

BETHEL--State Sen. Norm Ferguson (R-Hanover) said Friday he was successful in getting the Maine Department of Transportation to approve a 60-day moratorium on further MDOT directional signs in Bethel. He requested the moratorium following a meeting last week in which Bethel businesspeople and officials worried about the large number of signs and possible confusion they may cause. The moratorium would give the town time to consider other alternatives for directing motorists to local businesses and parts of town. Ferguson said a small number of requests for blue directional signs are already part way through the MDOT approval process, and may result in a few more signs going up shortly. Any other requests will be delayed. A public hearing on the town's signs situation, including the MDOT signs, will be held Wednesday, Oct. 15, at 6 p.m. in the CPS cafeteria.

Of 127 schools testing their 11th-graders, Telstar placed 57th, with a three-year average score of 293. John Bapst H.S. of Bangor, a college prep school, ranked first with a 400 average. Sewer grant approved BETHEL--Bethel voters Monday evening easily approved allowing the town to accept a $200,000 Community Development Block Grant that will be applied to the estimated $2.2 million it will take to upgrade the town's wastewater treatment plant. Two dozen voters turned out for the special Town Meeting, and all but one voted to accept the grant. The one vote in opposition, from Jack Greig, was in protest to the not to the grant or the upgrade, but to the lack of detailed financial information regarding the project. Voters also approved, unanimously, allowing the selectmen to reallocate $4,735 and spending it to renovate expanded Police Department space in the Cole Block. (The money had been initially slated to cover the cost of relocating the Police Station to the former Evans Notch District Headquarters of the White Mountain National Forest.) Voters also approved, again unanimously, giving the selectmen the authority to dispose of town-owned equipment.

Comp plan meetings continue

BETHEL--Sixty residents met Tuesday evening to discuss the visions and planning issues that will shape the town's new comprehensive plan. Among the topics discussed were economic development, housing, the environment and education. A second meeting, set for Tuesday, Oct. 21, will continue the process and look at strategies for implementing the goals identified for the plan. That meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Crescent Park School cafeteria.

Sidewalk ordinance approved

WOODSTOCK--Selectmen Tuesday approved a sidewalk parking or-dinance, in an effort to stop people from parking on sidewalks on Route 26 south of the Village Store. Town manager Vern Maxfield said he will talk with Jim Miclon, the town's constable, regarding enforcement. The condition of the sidewalks was also discussed at the selectmen's meeting. Resident Bunker House said the sidewalks are "in bad shape," and an elderly woman almost fell recently. At the annual Town Meeting, $1,000 was appropriated with the suggestion a fund be built up to eventually rebuild the sidewalks. Selectman Elton Cole suggested the board get estimates for replacing the walks, in total or in segments. About half a mile of walks need work. Maxfield said he believed the cost of rebuilding to be roughly $20,000 a mile.

The remote area of the Greenwood Road is attractive to dumpers from towns south of Greenwood, Monk believes. And judging by the concentrated numbers of tires, he theorized, a garage might be dumping them.

GETTING ORGANIZED--Firefighters and other emergency personnel gathered in the Tri-Town Rescue barn in West Paris Monday night to coordinate their response to a train derailment. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Many residents reacted calmly to the evacuation order. One woman waited quietly across from the general store for a relative to pick her

Others responded, at least initially, with confusion. "Man, I don't have a ride," one man told a firefighter.

The driver of a pick-up truck stopped at the roadblock to the village -- but not for long, Ignoring the a firefighter's order to stay out of the village, he tried to drive through. He was stopped again by another firefighter.

Only about a dozen evacuees ended up at Oxford Hills High School. The evacuation order was lifted about midnight, when it was determined the tanker did not have a leak after all. Although the outer shell of the tank did have a hole in it, the inner tank remained intact.

Other, undamaged cars in the train carried chloride, caustic soda and sulfuric acid. The boxcars carried wood pulp, which was offloaded by hand.

A smaller scale evacuation of residents living close to the site took place Tuesday afternoon, as plan to drain the propane into a tractor trailer tanker.

It was hoped the process would be finished about 2 a.m. Wednesday morning, but progress was slower than expected and the crew was still setting up later in the morning, ac-

4) Enable county governments to design and offer local governments a variety of municipal services (code enforcement, for example), on a competitive, fee-for-service

5) Hire professional administration to deliver the services -- and appoint, rather than elect, the county treasurers. Counties would have the option to elect or appoint sheriffs and registers of deeds and

The plan also calls for a specific split of the share of sheriff's department non-jail services, such as communications. The state and municipalities would generally share a 40-40 percent split of the cost -- with the other 20 percent coming from communities without organized police departments.

If the reform plan were implemented, the capped property tax rates for municipalities with police departments would average 62 percent, lower than current rates. For municipalities without police, the rate would be about 47 percent lower.

Voters in each county would have the opportunity to decide whether they want their own county to change.

A "poisoned" system?

The proposed changes would help get rid of the "poison" in the relationship between state and county government created by unfunded mandates, said Evan Richert, director of the State Planning Office.

Many of those in attendance at meeting, however, wondered if the state would keep its promise to fund the plan with revenue sharing. Richert described the state's history of honoring revenue sharing as "quite good," with 1991 the only year in which funding fell short.

He also said a portion of the funding could come from the cigarette tax; and, hopefully, from additional money generated by a growing

But state Sen. Norm Ferguson (R-Hanover) was still skeptical. "The cigarette tax is a good suggestion, blit you've got to realize it will probably be a declining revenue as people give up smoking," he said. that's what it's designed to do."

And regarding the idea of towns county jails. buying services from the county, statute allows currently municipalities to contract with the county for services.

Richert said, however, that counties cannot actively and aggressively create fee-based services they can only respond to specific requests from towns.

But, Ferguson countered, "I don't want to create a great expense for for the taxpayers.'

Others questioned taking the power of voting for county officials away from residents. Richert acknowledged that portion of the proposal had taken the most criticism throughout the state.

Dennis Damon, a county commissioner in Hancock County, said the current system of elected officials can leave the commissioners powerless when a lower-level elected official doesn't do his job.

If a sheriff is not performing up to snuff, for instance, "our only recourse is to reduce (his) budget," said Damon.

Hanscom also pointed out that the trend among municipalities is to get away from elected officials, such as tax collectors and town clerks, and go to administrative assistants.

And among those towns that have phased them out, she said, "no one goes back to that."

A hard sell

After the meeting, Hanscom said the proposal to appoint county officials is a good idea, but likely a hard sell to voters.

As a result, she thinks, the committee may recommend that all the appointments -- including the treasurer -- be optional.

Many municipal officials, Hanscom said, like the idea of the appointments, especially the county

"A lot of (residents) can't even name the county treasurer. It's like that in all the counties," she said.

As for the sheriff, said Hanscom, "Bethel doesn't hold an election for the police chief. Why do we in the county?"

Asked if she believed the relationship between Oxford County and local officials was a "poisoned" one, Hanscom said she thinks this county generally runs well, citing the registers of deeds and probate and the sheriff's department as particular examples.

But, she said, "fiscally it needs to be straightened out" -- for instance, she said, in the area of corrections. where state prisoners are placed in

During the Cumberland we sat for hours and studied the draft horses (once great war horses) pulling tons of concrete and we were awe struck at the size and strength of the animals. Shires, Percheron and Belgians seemed eager to please their human partners as they worked in teams to pull the heavy loads.

I sat wondering at the sport and how some might think it cruel to treat horses this way. There are rules of conduct so that the animals are not hurt and the test is fairly

Saturday and Sunday we spent hours in the barns at Fryeburg talking to farmers about haflingers and the joys of owning them. Now I'm sure what we want, the horses with the golden tails and manes. These "draft show ponies" compete in halter classes, single cart, tandem hitch and ground drive.

Some owners travel to dozens or more fairs each year to show off their skills. There are three barns full of these strong pretty horses which originally came from Austria and are becoming more popular with farmers each year.

We met a filly named Evita from Rich-lin farm in Barnstead, NH The owner , Linda Misiaszek, backed Evita gently out or her fair stall so we could meet her face to face and admire her confirmation. Beside Evita was a colt of similar color and size and next door to the two was the stallion who sired

Across the barn we met the Hadleys from West Paris father, Roger, and son, Maurice. Each had teams at Fryeburg to compete in classes such as, pairs to wagon, unicorn hitch, four hitch, six hitch and eight hitch. Also, these teams do log scooting and twitching as well as handy classes

Locke Mills

Lorraine Larson It has been real chilly mornings here lately, so Thursday Andy took the flowers out of the window boxes and brought them inside, except for the annuals. We have a mass of begonias gracing our living room along with all the other house plants, so we're living very colorful lives a time anyway. It seems as if the flowers just get a good start on blooming and it is time to bring them inside, but that is life here in Maine. It is a pretty good state to live in, all in all. I wouldn't change it. Lucy is finally losing some weight. She was dangerously overweight for a time and we were quite worried because in spite of the diet she was on she still stayed heavy but still all of a sudden it started to show that she was losing. Maybe I should try it. Both she and Zazzi Poochie are doing better in the behavior department, especially in the house. It is rather amusing to see Princess herd Lucy around. Lucy could make mincemeat of her if she chose but Lucy usually takes it all in stride. I say usually because I saw her once when she was short tempered around another animal so I keep a close eye out. She didn't hurt the animal because I was there to stop her but I found out she can lose her temper on oc-

Debbie Brown along with Crystal Lake, Nattie Fitzpatric, and Dot Choppong from Paris Assembly of God in Rumford Center were among fifty people on top of Mt. Washington Thursday afternoon, claiming New England for God. There was about a 4 to 1 ratio of men which was unusual, usually the women out number the men. Every state was represented except Rhode Island. Many of the men were going on to the Promise Keepers rally in Washington DC on Saturday.

I can't remember if I mentioned we had eleven Canadian geese visit our little pond. It was fun to see times, a piece of blue hill pottery, a them but nowhere near as noisy as the time the more than forty Mergansers paid us an important visit;

Andy and I attended the Greenwood Historical Society meeting Wednesday evening. Mostly we talked about how to finance the purchase of the Bennett property on Main St. Refreshments of cheese and crackers, donuts were furnished by Phyllis Coolidge.

By the way, since Kim Brown said she'd appreciate mail I thought you might appreciate having an address; Kim Brown, Burgess 434, Evangel College, 1111N. Glenstone, Springfield, MO. 65802.

Andy and I attended the meeting of the Bethel Historical Society Thursday evening. There was a film on the 1947 fires and a discussion panel sharing stories about their memories of the fire. Now I have a question I did not get a chance to ask the panel. Perhaps someone can clear up a memory for me. I remember a fire down on the ridge between the Middle Interval Rd. and Hudson Hill. Now I thought that was in 1947, the same year as the Brownfield fires, but no one mentioned it. Anyhow I was a young teenager and someone led a cow over to me and asked me to hold her. Now cows are not small, and my last recollection of being really close up to a cow was when I was between two and three and my grandfather, Frank Flins, Kept a couple cows, Bessie and Betty (what else) as a small farm he owned at that time in Mayville. In fact my two earlier memories are of that place. Bessie nudged and nosed me about, curious no doubt, but it certainly terrified me at the time in spite of assurance the cow was gentle. Anyhow to get back to the fine, I spent an uncomfortable time holding onto the cow and wondering how I would stop her if she decided to bolt. Someone beside me must remember the fire. Please enlighten me.

The foliage of the trees are just beautiful now. Every day they get prettier. I think the peak will be about Saturday. What a lot of traffic will go by the house that day.

to our regular schedule, we have had field trips, special guests, a musical instrument demonstration, special programs have been started and school pictures have been taken.

Grades K- 2 went to the Oxford County fair and won ribbons for their entries. They also visited Coopers Apple Orchard to learn all about the apple business. Classroom activities before and after these trips prepared and reinforced the learning.

The two sixth grades went on a rafting trip down the Androscoggan. They are working on history and science projects connected with the river, and will be making more trips this fall.

Sherry Shattenberg from the African country of Madagascar visited the sixth grades to talk about life in Africa. She graciously agreed to spend the day with us all. She showed the children popular games, talked about food and pets (a lot of snakes), and the everyday life. Sherry is a cousin to sixth graders Walker and Benton Shattonberg, and is on her way to college in the US Thank you, Sherry. Grandparents of William and Gracie Makley, "Elroyce and Ray" joined us one morning for the open exercise in the gym. Their music was added to ours, and a good time was enjoyed by all.

The fifth-graders have begun their D.A.R.E. program with Officer Phil Taylor. This is a 17 week drug and alcohol abuse prevention program and will culminate with a graduation in Feb.

Fourth- and fifth-graders have begun taking instrument lessons. The stringed instruments are available for fourth graders, and fifth graders can add a variety of other instruments.

The first Parent Volunteer meeting of the year was held Oct. l, and plans are being made for classroom volunteers and fundraising projects. The next meeting will be on Tuesday, Nov. 4 at 6:30. Any interested parent or community member is welcome.

Other upcoming dates to make note of are: Oct. 9, Thursday, will be an early release day. All students will have lunch available to them and kindergarten children will go home with the older students at 12:30.

Oct. 10, Friday, is an all day teacher workshop, and no school for the children.

Oct. 13, Monday, is Columbus Day Holiday and no school.

This week at the

Moses Mason House

A wide variety of odd and curious items were presented for identification and discussion at the October meeting of the Bethel Historical Society, held Thursday evening in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. In most cases someone in the audience was able to successfully name or propose a purpose, but several remain mysteries.

Following this portion of the meeting, a video on the 1947 fires furnished by Willard and Sylvia Wight was shown. Here was documented in graphic detail the destruction that resulted from a long period of drought followed by a wide series of fires in October 1947, 50 years ago this year. Over 200,000 acres burned, 16 died, 2,500 were made homeless, nine communities leveled or nearly wiped out, and four other communities suffered

After the showing of the video a panel consisting of Ernest Angevine, John Fox, Howard Cole, Emerson Clough, Lyle Wiggin, and Francis Berry provided their first-hand recollections of what has been called "the week Maine burned," Among other things they recalled the continuous smell of smoke in the air, the terrible fear of not knowing where the fire would break out next, land the necessity of having to be ready to leave one's home at any time to escape the flames. John Fox, a fireman in Lovell at the time, recalls that there was a real dilemma in that with several fire departments fighting fires at the same time there was no clear chain of command so in some cases much confusion existed as who exactly was in charge. One of the outcomes of this whole sad episode is that after 1947 the Maine Forest Service instituted a number of changes including the creation of clear chain of command in the event of another forest fire emergency.

During the business portion of the meeting, president Walter Hatch announced that the next monthly meeting would be held on Nov. 6 and feature an oral history night on the writer Louise Dickinson Rich, who wrote several books about life in the wilderness area near the Richardson Lakes. Anyone with personal recollections of Mrs, Rich is urged to serve on the panel by calling the society office at 824-2908. The "Artifact of the Month" was announced as a folding chair carried in the Civil War by Gen. Cuvier Grover, born in 1828 in Bethel and a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. Among his engagements during the Civil War were the battles of Second Bull Run, Yorktown, Williamsburg, Fair Oaks, Savage Station, Glendale, Malvern Hill, Winchester, Fishers Hill, and Cedar Creek, where he was wounded. He died in 1885 and is buried at West Point, N.Y. The chair was the gift of

John and Fumiko Head. The president called attention to pre-publication order blanks for Society Curator Randall Bennett latest book on Mount Zircon. Those interested were encouraged to order early so as to take advantage of the price reduc-

Tri-Town Rescue Service

Tri-Town Rescue Service bought two new defibrillator/monitors this week, with the help of two grants and countless hours of fundraising. The USDA Rural Development Corporation donated $6,650, or 35 percent of the total cost of the purchase, Representatives from the USDA, Alden Turner and Alton Wedberg, presented the grant money to board members this week. Prudential Corporation Helping Hearts program also donated $2,000 toward the purchase.

The current equipment is very outdated, It doesn't even allow our paramedics to perform some of the techniques like cardiac pacing that could potentially save a life. A separate semiautomatic defibrillator was needed for the basic EMT to use.

Tri-Town purchased two Zoll 1600 machines, very lightweight and very user-friendly. The new equipment can be used by all levels of trained personnel. Basic EMTs have already been trained to use the automatic features, so they can defibrillate someone who's heart has stopped. And paramedics can use the machine for cardiac monitoring and recording of all cardiac events during a cardiac arrest.

One machine will be kept in the ambulance in Bryant Pond and the other in the ambulance in West Paris. That way first responders from either town can have availability of early defibrillation, in the case of a heart attack when the heart stops. Early CPR is critical as a first step to saving lives. Early defibrillation is the second most important factor in successful rescucitation. The recent purchase of two defibrillators make it more likely that the necessary equipment is available when needed. And the third most important factor for successful rescucitation is early access to paramedics and the drugs they can administer to keep the heart functioning until arrival at an emergency room. Tri-Town continues to staff paramedics during many days, Advanced life support is available from surrounding services through mutual aid when not staffed at Tri-Town. Tri-Town Rescue is looking forward to its annual meeting and election of officers on Wednesday, Nov. 12. New members are always welcome. Contact either the chief, Jane Chandler, evenings and weekends (674-2963), or Jeanne Morgan, assistant chief, days (674-2400). Training is ongoing, with ambulance training the fourth Wednesday and search and rescue training the second Wednesday, both at 6:30 p.m. Auxiliary personnel meet the first Monday of each month at 6:30 p.m. and assist with fundraising activities, from food sales and suppers to yard sales. Any help is appreciated.

Friends of the Androscoggin

At 10 a.m. on Saturday a stallwant group of canoeists assembled at the Mead Paper Co, canoe access area in Gilead for the annual foliage jaunt down the Androscoggin River.

Despite the damp weather, the group numbered 13 canoes, 31 people, three dogs, and a Holstein calf. (Three of the people, one of the dogs and the calf did not actually paddle the river but were there to take pictures and create merriment at the start).

The paddlers stopped at Newt's Landing in West Bethel for a photograph to commemorate the deeding of the site to Mahoosuc Land Trust by owner Roy Newton last week.

During the short ceremony Land Trust Director Jim Mitchell pointed out that West Bethel is very important to the trust, being, the location of Schools Landing, Kendall Island, the Philbrook Islands and Newt's Landing, all MLT properties.

He also pointed out that the Hay Crossing, the access to Kendall Island has also been offered to the trust by owner Becky Kendall.

BACK ON HER FEET-Bev Melville of Locke Mills went out for a twomile walk along the Greenwood Road last week -- an ambitious undertaking for anyone, but particularly impressive in her case. Melville, who retired from teaching at Telstar High School a year ago, underwent brain surgery in late July to have a benign tumor in her inner ear removed. The tumor was discovered in April, after she experienced tinnitus and severe vertigo. The condition prevented her from doing something she had done for years - playing piano at Telstar's graduation in June. But Melville is now on the mend, and was able to play the organ recently at her church, despite the fact she has suffered some loss of hearing in one ear. "It's been an exercise in faith and patience," she said of her illness. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

JANET C. BLACK INTERIOR AND FLORAL DESIGN-Decorating consultation can be for everyone, no matter how small the project may seem - picking out colors or working around grandmother's chair, for example. A decorator can save many mistakes through a quick consultation. Or on a large project, make sure the final outcome is what was anticipated. Janet Black of Janet C. Black Interior and Floral Design has worked on large commercial and residential complexes, as well as projects as small as arranging furniture. The first haif hour consultation is free. Black recently won the People's Choice Award for her entry in the Maine State Florist and Growers Association competition in Bangor. Her winning design, entitled "Deck the Halls," depicts the holiday Christmas carol "Let It Snow." The arrangement is a vision of white silk flowers and preserved materials, and is currently on display at the Unicorn Flower Shop in Bethel. For a consultation appointment call 207-836-2412.

In Loving Memory Richard Hutchins Murdered Oct. 9, 1992

Can you hear me when I'm talking? Can you see me when I cry? And still wonder - why? Five years have passed, yet it seems so long ago. Since I've had a chance to hug you Son And say "I love you so". I saw a star up in the sky and pretended it was you. I told you how I missed your smile And how I felt so blue. I told you how I love you And that I always will And you'll always be the greatest son Then... Now..: Still.
